Review of the RBNZ Act	High	Treasury	In November 2017 the Government announced it would undertake a review of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Act 1989 to create a modern monetary and financial policy framework. The review is being undertaken in two phases. Phase Two involves a comprehensive review of the financial policy provisions of the Act that provide the legislative basis for prudential regulation and supervision. It is also reviewing the broader governance arrangements for RBNZ, including the respective roles of the Board and Governor. The first of the Phase Two consultations – Reserve Bank Act Review: Safeguarding the future of our financial system – was published in November 2018. In February 2019 NZBA submitted on that consultation, and Treasury published a report summarising the key messages and themes emerging from the submissions received. The second of the Phase Two consultations was published in June 2019. That included a number of in-principle decisions and topics for consultation. NZBA submitted in August 2019. In December 2019 Finance Minister Grant Robertson announced the following further Cabinet decisions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Greater powers to monitor banks and hold directors and executives more accountable for their actions. • Introducing deposit insurance of $50,000 per customer, per institution. • A Governance Board to oversee financial stability matters. • A Financial Policy Remit will set out matters the Board must have regard to when pursuing RBNZ’s financial stability objectives. • Measures to increase transparency at RBNZ, including more oversight for the Auditor-General and the Ombudsman. 	The third of the Phase Two consultations was published in March. It focused on the design of the new prudential framework for deposit takers and the deposit insurance scheme. NZBA’s submission on the consultation is here.

Open Banking	High	MBIE	In March 2018, Payments NZ (PNZ) announced an API pilot involving banks, payment providers and large retailers. The pilot tested two API standards – Account Information and Payment Initiation – and provided valuable insights into the design of a shared API framework. Following the success of the pilot, an API standards service was launched to the industry in May 2019. The API standards service is an industry-led body responsible for defining roles, governance, minimum standards and API specifications. It has now been transitioned to the API Centre for ongoing management and governance. The API Centre coordinates the ongoing development, management and governance of payment-related API standards and provides supporting services. It is industry led and designed to respond to market needs. Further information regarding the API Centre can be found here. The focus is now on banks making their APIs available to and entering into the due diligence and commercial process with users. In December 2019, the Minister of Commerce and Consumer Affairs wrote to the banks that are involved in the Payments NZ API project, setting out his views on the project and open banking generally. The letter acknowledges progress to date, concerns about certain areas and outlines some expectations to ensure good progress is continued.	On 5 August, MBIE published a discussion document seeking feedback on options for establishing a consumer data right in New Zealand. NZBA's submission on the discussion document is here .
